CHICAGO, MONDAY, MORNING, DEC. 26.
Editorial Courtesy.

Last Friday, we published an editorial relative to the Enquirer and a communication published in the Journal signed "Wabash."

We alluded to our neighbor in a gentlemanly manner, and with the exception of the heading of the article—"A Mare's nest, discovered by an Ass," made use of no expression to which the most refined might have objected. The editor of the Enquirer replies to that article, as a "characteristic column of slang," in which he is called "sundry disgraceful names," &c., &c. Now we seriously ask John B. Hall, or the young man who writes under Mr. H.'s name, whether he expects to gain any reputation which a decent man would covet, by the use of such falsification and deception as this? We challenge the editor of the Enquirer to point out any "slang," or a single improper expression we used toward him in that article. Unable to reply to our article, he has resorted to a low and contemptible dodge—pretending to treat an article which might be read in any circle without offence, and which contained not a single word which we should hesitate for a moment to speak to Mr. Hall's face, as beneath his notice, while at the same time he writes and publishes a retaliation as far below ours in gentlemanly spirit, language and editorial courtesy, as earth is below heaven. We call this contemptible, and to prove it such to any man, we only ask him, and we ask him as a favor, to read the Journal article of Friday, and the Enquirer "reply" of Saturday. After reading these, tell us whether we are a "puppy and a blackguard," as the Enquirer remarks with such utter disregard to the decencies of life, the editor of that paper has not proven himself something infinitely beneath either! We forgive Mr. Hall his threats about kicking. It has been customary with Locofoco editors here, when they could not get any advantage of one end of us, to threaten the other end—but we are not aware of having been placed in any bodily fear by such desperate threats, nor that any of the bold fellows who made them, ever endeavored to carry them out. Our neighbor very probably hopes to acquire a reputation for bravery by thus threatening us, the small editor in Indiana, but there is another plan for acquiring such a reputation, which involves a little more danger, and that is by trying to carry out such threats.

FIREMEN'S PARTIES.—The regular anniversary Soiree and Supper given by the firemen, will come off at POSTER'S HALL on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of the present week. Tickets can be had at the Book and Drug stores—at Currie's Music Store and of the Executive Committee. Price of tickets admitting one gentleman and accompanying ladies $3.00 for both Soiree and Supper. As the object of these entertainments is to increase the present fireman's fund to enable them to obtain a new engine—it is hoped that our large property holders, who are more directly interested in the success of the Fire Department than any other class, will join the firemen in making their parties as profitable as they promise to be brilliant.

That we are to have a new engine, in spite of the sluggishness of the City Council, there is no room to doubt—and to the liberality and determined efforts of the ladies we shall pass the credit. Who ever knew a worthy enterprise to fail when the Ladies took hold of it?

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.—The promised mammoth Monthly, for January, is on our desk and looks twice as inviting as ever. Graham is determined to commence the New Year ahead of all competition in Magazine-dom, and the present beautiful number shows that he is bound to succeed. The cuts for January are decidedly the finest ever issued, while its literary attractions possess the highest order of merit. Great inducements are offered for clubbing. Any young man desirous of forming a small club, and obtaining the Magazine at reduced rates, can learn the terms at this office, and see a sample copy. Now is the time to subscribe!

HOGS.—Shanklin, Jaquess & Co. have taken in the heaviest single lot of hogs that has been brought to this market up to the present date. The lot consisted of 35 hogs which averaged 288 lbs each. They were fattened by Ephraim Merritt, Esq., of Posey county. They also received day before yesterday a monster hog fattened by Jonathan Knight, Esq., of Posey, which weighed 694 lbs. This is the second of the "big hog family," and weighed only 32 lbs less than the one received by Messrs. Orr & Laughlin, of which we made mention on Tuesday last. We are assured that the quality of pork receiving now is far superior to that of any previous year.

The Whig majority in the Legislature of Massachusetts, over all stripes and shades, is 84. There will be no doubt now about the election of an honest and true Whig to the U. S. Senate.

Slavery Gas.

Mr. Gerritt Smith, as will be perceived by the following extract from the proceedings in the House on the 20th, has been kicking up a little excitement in Congress about Slavery. If the least possible good promised to result from Mr. S.'s remarks, we might find in that good some excuse for arousing violent passions right at the commencement of Congress, and provoking idle speeches. But as it is, his conduct should receive the condemnation of even those who agree with him in opinions. Mr. Preston replied to him at the time, and Mr. Mason replied on the 21st. The proceedings say:

Mr. Smith took the floor, and commenced speaking in reference to the Kosztz affair, and after expressing his approval of Marcy's letter to Hulseman, said that he considered it somewhat hypocritical when the fact was taken into consideration that the United States was the oppressor of millions of her citizens—the slaves. The same divine precept quoted by Mr. Marcy, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," would and did justify the rescue of Shadrach at Boston, Jerry at Syracuse, and the blood-shedding at Christiansburg, and the immediate freedom of every slave in the land. Mr. S. proceeded at some length to speak against the evils of slavery, and was replied to by Mr. Preston, who defended the slave-holder and Mr. Marcy's letter.

Self-Coupling and Truck-Guide. One of the most practical inventions we have looked at lately is Livermore's self-coupling Truck-Guide, which has been adopted recently by a number of western Railroads, and which we hope to see used on the cars of our own roads. Its extreme simplicity is a great recommendation, overcoming as it does the great objections to the present manner of coupling cars, with its dangers to those whose duty it is to perform this work. Yet it is not merely a coupling apparatus, but by guiding the trucks as a tongue guides a wagon prevents the heavy surging and vibratory motions, and keeps the cars in the track notwithstanding obstacles. The use of links is done away with, and cars can be readily self-coupled while on any curve. When the cars are coupled there is no movement right at the coupling parts as at present. That is fixed and firm, and being attached to the axles of the cars, acts as a tongue to each. They are attached to new cars at very slight expense. The expense of altering old cars, including entire cost of springs, bolts, &c., will not exceed $40. Freight cars will cost less.

This invention has been exhibited by Mr. E. J. Durant, Agent, to Hon. Samuel Hall, President of the E. & C. Railroad when we are informed, is much pleased with it. It is at least worthy of the attentive consideration of those connected with new railroad enterprises, as it may prove of great advantage when properly applied.

Drawing of Paintings. The drawing of Mr. Winter's paintings, in the manner of the Art Union, came off Saturday evening. The largest and smallest paintings were withdrawn, as all the subscriptions were not taken. Mr. Winter took twelve chances himself that were not taken by others. He drew the first painting. It was afterwards put up at a second drawing, and secured by Mr. Taylor, of Illinois. Mr. Wm. Hubbell drew the second prize. Mr. S. Kahn the third, or cattle scene, and Judge Battell the fourth. They are all beautiful paintings, and elegantly framed, and of about the same value. The unlucky drawers bore their bad luck good-naturedly, satisfied perfectly with the manner in which the affair was conducted. We should like to see the big painting retained here, but have not heard what disposition has been made of it.

The following communication was accidentally mislaid and left out of our Saturday's issue. We ask pardon of our correspondent, and also of the young lady teacher, of whom the communication so very justly and appropriately speaks:

For the Evansville Journal.
Miss Abbott's School.
MR. EDITOR:
I was present at the examination of Miss Abbott's school, on Thursday last, and must say that I was much pleased with the thoroughness evinced by the scholars. It has been the aim of all the teachers now engaged in our Common Schools, to give their pupils a thorough and not a superficial knowledge, and this, sir, is the only way that children can be fitted for High Schools. The exercises consisted of spelling, reading, geography, arithmetic and grammar, and the answers were given with promptness and correctness, and that too, for questions not laid down in the books! There was not as full an attendance as ought to have been, both of children and parents. It is not to be expected that teachers can learn a child if parents keep it from school. Teachers would feel as though their efforts were prized, did parents attend those examinations in greater numbers. Too much praise cannot be awarded to Miss Abbott and those associated with her, for the pains they have taken to instill knowledge, and that thoroughly, in the children under their care.

A VISITOR.
Gov. Powell has pardoned the young woman, Amanda Carter, who was recently sentenced to the Kentucky penitentiary for two years. This act of clemency on the part of the Governor is highly justifiable if we are correctly informed as to the circumstances. Miss Carter is a native of this State, and of respectable family connections, but has been unfortunate in the exercise of her "women's rights."

The subscriptions to the Weekly New York Tribune, week before last, exceeded 500 per day.

Death of T. H. Shreve.

With great regret we learn from the Louisville Journal of the death of Thos. H. Shreve, Esq., assistant editor of that paper. He died on Thursday last, of consumption after a long illness. We regret his death as a friend, and as a man of no ordinary ability. His talent has contributed largely to the fame of the Louisville Journal. We can pay no better tribute to his memory than to republish the following from the pen of Prentice:

All who were well acquainted with Mr. Shreve, love him with a deep, earnest, and abiding love. We knew him long and intimately, for he acted as our assistant editor more than ten years, and we can say in all sincerity that he was one of the purest and best men upon the earth. We do not believe, that even in his most careless and unguarded moments, he ever had in his secret bosom a thought, a feeling, a sentiment, or a wish, that would not, if revealed to his fellow men, have justly been considered as creditable to him and to human nature. It always seemed to us that he was nearly free from the weakness which are the common lot of humanity. He guarded the truth and purity of his soul far more vigilantly than he guarded his life itself. He kept an ever-watchful sentinel at the portals of his spirits who suffered no guilty or unclean thing to enter there. He scorned vice and crime in all their forms, yet he never sordid the vicious and the criminal, for he remembered that they were a portion of his race, and the desire of his heart was to do them good. His honesty, his devotion to principle, was proof against all allurements and all intimidations. No human power could induce him to write or to speak what he did not think, and no human power could prevent him from writing and speaking what he felt it to be his duty to God and to his fellow men to utter. He engaged with zeal and activity in the promotion of all objects that he deemed calculated to increase the happiness of society. He directed his best exertions to the establishment of judicious and systematic projects of charity and was ever ready to give liberally from his own hand in proportion to his means. He was true and faithful and earnest in his attachments, and throughout his life he always gathered around him bands of friends, whose lofty spirits were congenial with his own. It is not for dwellers of the earth to attain to perfection, but we conscientiously believe that he was as near to it in all his attributes of character as human beings ever arrive. Beautiful, most beautiful, were all his walks in life, and so far as mortals can have the means of judging, he was well fitted to pass from the society of men to that of angels. There seemed to us to be but little dross in his nature, from which he had need to be purified by the angel of death ere he passed into the great brotherhood of the blessed in heaven.

Mr. Shreve's abilities were of a high order. As a writer, he was much distinguished before his connection with the Louisville Journal, and his pen contributed much valuable matter to this paper. His taste was pure, his humor was rich and exuberant, and he could, when he pleased, write with extraordinary vehemence, eloquence, and pathos. His mind was richly stored with knowledge, and he could always use that knowledge with wonderful facility. The condition of his health was such for the last two or three years that he wrote very little during that time, but he has left behind him some productions which we trust that our generation will not permit to be forgotten.

COUNTY CONVENTION. The County Temperance Convention met pursuant to the call, at the Court-house, and organized by electing W. W. Tilston President, and L. Echelberg Secretary.

The following preamble and resolutions were then unanimously adopted, viz: "In view of the increasing number of the crimes committed, of homes made desolate, and hearts broken by the use of intoxicating beverages, and feeling deeply the misery, desolation, and woe entailed by the enormous traffic therein: Therefore we, the citizens of Vanderburgh county, in Convention assembled, do resolve—

1st. That being firmly convinced from past experience, that nothing short of a prohibitory law will procure the end so much wished by every lover of humanity.

2nd. That we will use all honorable means in our power to secure the banishment of all noxious beverages from our fair State.

3d. That we appoint seventeen delegates to the State Temperance Convention, to be held at Indianapolis, the second Wednesday in January, 1854.

Upon motion a committee of three were appointed to nominate delegates. The committee reported the following gentlemen:—John W. Hughes, George Gosling, Charles F. Brodington, James T. Walker, Rev. Jas. Hill, Rev. C. B. Davidson, Rev. W. H. McCarter, Rev. A. B. Smith, Dan. Woolsey, Francis Kessler, M. A. Lawrence, N. D. Wright, W. W. Tilston, Alex. Mason, Rev. W. M. Hester, and Rev. Jas. Ritchie, who were then elected.

Upon motion it was resolved that the editors of the city papers be requested to publish these proceedings.

The convention then adjourned sine die. W. W. TILSTON, President.
L. ECHELBERG, Secretary.

REFUGIATION.—The Supreme Judge in Mississippi, who made the decision making the state liable for the payment of the Union bonds, was defeated of a re-election by a repudiation candidate over 25,000. The popular vote of the state when the "Bonds" were made an issue was cast in about the same proportion for all other candidates in the field.

Kanawha salt has advanced 5 cents at Louisville. It is now quoted at fifty cents.

Hogs.—Killing was going on at all the pork-houses yesterday, but last night the weather was warm and rainy, and unless a change takes place in the weather, operations will have to be suspended to-day. Sales of about 1,500 head heavy hogs yesterday at $4.25, time, equal to cash, and some lots of light hogs at $4.10. We heard of no sales in the product. [Lou. Jour. 23d.]

From the London News, September 14th. Deep Ocean Soundings.

As this subject now engrosses the attention of many of the scientific men of the present age, it may not be uninteresting to know the results of a discovery which has been introduced by our neighbors on the other side of the Atlantic, for the purpose of testing the existence of a foundation to the ocean, and also to know of what it is composed. There has for several days past been lying in the Southampton waters an American brig, which is empowered under an act of Congress in connection with the scientific researches of Lieutenant Maury, of the National Observatory at Washington, for the purpose of entering into a series of meteorological observations and discoveries, left Chesapeake Bay on the 31st of May, and has completed a perfect line of soundings across the Atlantic to Rockledge, off the west coast of Scotland. The distance between each place of sounding averaged about one hundred miles. A line was then run to the Azores, to the north of which, about a parallel of forty-five in a south-west direction, an elevation was discovered on the bottom of the ocean of about six thousand feet, the soil indicating a line of yellow chalky substance, mixed with a small portion of the finest sand. After leaving the Azores the Dolphin took a westerly direction, still succeeding in discovering bottom. Steering north, she made a direct line to the "three chimneys," where at a depth of 1,900 fathoms bottom was also discovered.

At this point Lt. Berryman, in charge of the ship, finding the position of the weather unfavorable to a continuation of their research made sail, and came into Southampton.

The greatest depth at which bottom was reached was 3,130 fathoms, in lat. from 41 to 43, lon. 51 to 56. The explorers have brought home specimens of the soil which has been discovered at their various places of sounding, and which will be laid before a committee of scientific men at Washington, for the purpose of analyzing. The temperature of the water was also tested at various depths, specimens of which have also been preserved. During the whole of the observations particular attention was paid to the width, depth and force of the current in different parts of the ocean, all of which has been carefully noted, for the purpose of being fully discussed and explained. The Dolphin intends returning at the latter end of the week, and should the weather permit will take a line of sounding to the eastern edge of the Azores, that being a portion of the Atlantic which has at present remained unexamined. Of course a further explanation of the results of this expedition will not at present be given, as the whole of the matter collected is being carefully preserved for the uses and explanation of the gentlemen at Washington.

There is one interesting matter in connection with this subject, and the non-existence of which has been the great drawback to all previous results being satisfactory, and which is the very simple method by which the sounding apparatus is rendered entirely perfect and useful. In all previous attempts the great puzzle has been how to get back the weight when it has once reached the bottom, and it is a well known fact, especially amongst seamen, that in deep sea sounding, however carefully or strongly a line may be made, it never has, after being once sunk, been recovered. In this respect, however, Brother Jonathan deserves much praise, for he has invented a plan by which the weight upon its reaching the bottom, becomes immediately detached, and the line, therefore drawn in with perfect ease. The plan is this: A hole is drilled through a 64 lbs or heavier shot, sufficiently large to admit a rod of about three-quarters of an inch in diameter. This rod is about twelve or fourteen inches in length, and with the exception of about an inch and a half at the bottom, perfectly solid. At the top of the rod are two arms, extending one from each side. These arms, being upon easily acting hinges, are capable of being raised or lowered with very little power. A small branch extends from the outside of each of them, which is for the purpose of holding, by means of rings, a place of wire, by which the ball is swung to the rod. A piece of rope is then attached by each end to the arms, to which again is joined to the sounding line. The ball is then lowered into the water, and upon reaching the bottom the strain upon the little line ceases, and the arms fall down, allowing the ball to detach itself entirely from the rod, which is then easily drawn in, in the drilled portion of which is discovered to be filled with a specimen of that which it has come in contact with at the bottom. There are other advantages, also, in connection with the invention, which are of great utility in carrying on the discoveries, and which, no doubt, will so materially assist the scientific researches of the world, that the subject of whether there is or is not a bottom to the sea will no longer remain a difficulty to answer.
